

La maille, c'est moi

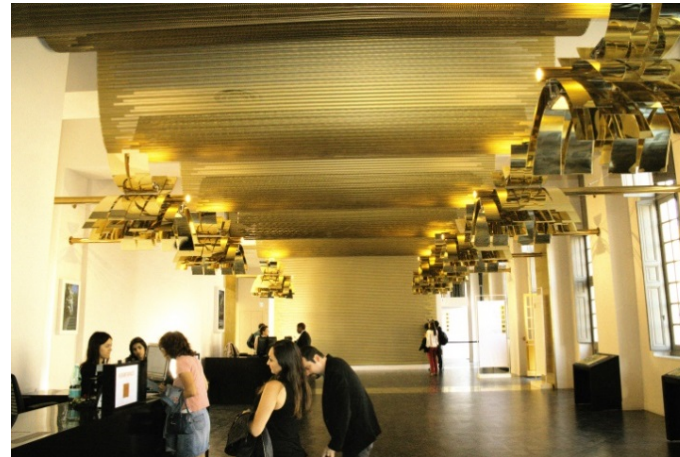

Regal renovation of the main entrance at the Palace of Versailles

WORLD WIDE WEAVE

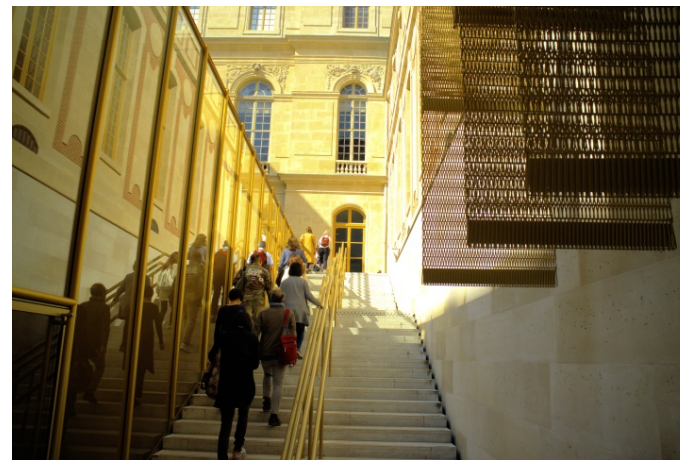

Picture 1: Perrault created a golden ceiling that spans the entire foyer like a giant canopy, creating waves of varying size.

Picture 2: Perrault used a sculptural ceiling design made of golden metal mesh from GKD to blend in harmoniously with the historic opulence of the fairytale palace.

Picture 3: Aluminum rods of varying lengths inserted into flat wires lend the flexible metallic mesh a kind of plastic effect that has never been seen before.

Picture 4: Flanked by a wall made of tinted glass in a golden frame and light marble, visitors access the Cour des Princes outdoor area via an elongated stone stairway.
